Spring is nearly finished and summer is around the corner.

Temperatures are rising and everything is in Bloom, birds are nesting and young animals are all around. After a nice and dry winter, we suddenly feel the warm breeze which suddenly brought the spring, which has now prolongued itself in a starting summer.

The guesthouse and the farm look at its best and the garden has been up-lifted and the great spring cleaning has been done.

The first guests have made their presence and now we know the summer is here. The first people already had a swin in the pool and we also had the first "braai" around the fire, of which many will follow.

Life is great and after rain and cold comes sun-shine
